

BATTLE IS TO RAGE ABOUT MUKDEN NOW

Attempt Being Made by Japs to Cut Off Russians.

Port Arthur Is Expected to Hold
Out Until Next January, It Is Said.

ANOTHER ENGAGEMENT DUE

London, Sept. 19.—It is asserted in a dispatch from Tokio that the Japanese are vigorously shelling the Russian position at Mukden, preparatory to a general advance in endeavoring to cut off Gen. Kuropatkin's retreat. The Japanese army, the dispatch adds, is disposed in the same relative positions as in the fighting before Liao Yang.

ST. PETERSBURG DENIES FIGHTING HAS BEGUN.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 19.—Reports that Gen. Kuropatkin is pushing on to the northeast of Mukden are not borne out by official telegrams. According to the latest advice the Japanese forces continue to increase at Hiananpu and Ventai. A decisive advance in the direction of Mukden is, therefore, not expected to occur for some days. The Russian forces at Mukden undoubtedly are large and every day's delay enables the commander-in-chief to perfect defenses.

MUST HOLD OUT TILL JANUARY.

London, Sept. 19.—The Telegraph's Chinese correspondent says:
"Two German and a Cossack, who have arrived from Port Arthur, assert that General Kuropatkin told General Stoessel that he must hold out until January, and they say that the garrison has ammunition and food for six months. This probably is greatly exaggerated. Other refugees say that no fresh meat is left at Port Arthur and that the garrison there is reduced to 8,000.
"Boys as young as 13 years have been impressed for hospital work. The destruction of the coast defense vessel Gremashohi by striking a mine is confirmed."

St. Petersburg, Sept. 19.—Gen. Kuropatkin reports a reconnaissance by the Russian cavalry, infantry and artillery has been made toward the enemy's front and right flank. The Russian losses are slight. The Japs, he says, are concentrating between Ventai and Hiananpu to the south of Mukden. The Japs, during the reconnaissance, evacuated the village which they held with slight losses.

GEN. KUROPATKIN REVIEWS.

Mukden, Sept. 19.—Saturday Gen. Kuropatkin reviewed the first corps and two divisions of the second corps.

JAPANESE ADVANCE PROCEEDS.

Hong, Sept. 19.—A dispatch from Liao Yang says that the Japanese advance on Mukden is proceeding, and that a fourth army from New Chwang is on the Russian extreme left. The dispatch also says that Gen. Kuropatkin has received two new divisions, making a total Japanese force of three hundred thousand men.

TO HAVE TWO ARMIES.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 19.—Emperor Nicholas has decided to form a second Manchurian army. Gen. Kuropatkin will become chief of both armies, but probably without the title of commander-in-chief.

PRINCE BISMARCK

SON OF THE IRON CHANCELLOR PASSES PEACEFULLY AWAY.

Friedrichshagen, September 19.—Prince Herbert Bismarck died yesterday morning. The end was painless. Since he ceased to be a foreign minister on the retirement of his father in 1890, Prince Herbert Bismarck had taken part in public affairs only as a member of the Reichstag.

Prince Bismarck's father trained him for his successor as chancellor of the German empire, and advanced him rapidly to the diplomatic service until at the age of 40 he was minister of foreign affairs, in which position he took part in nearly every important international transaction.

The title of Prince Bismarck and the large fortune of the deceased go to his son, Otto, 7 years old.

Louisville, Sept. 19.—The attempt of Louis P. Doerhoefer, a wealthy resident of Louisville, to break the world's 24-hour automobile record of 861 miles was frustrated by an accident which wrecked the machine and resulted in the injury of his assistant, Frank Katz, an expert automobilist. Blinded by dust, Katz steered while at one of the turns of the track and went through two fences at 3:50 o'clock yesterday morning. Katz will recover, unless internal complications should result. No bones were broken. At the time of the accident Mr. Doerhoefer had gone 350 miles in ten hours and 50 minutes.

PASSENGER WRECK IN OHIO

Little Rock, Ark., Sept. 19.—Warran Baldwin, a conductor on the Iron Mountain railroad, was shot and killed by O. J. Allison, a section foreman, as his train was pulling into McGibber, Ark., yesterday. The shooting followed a dispute over the payment of a fare of 21 cents. Allison paid the fare and then followed Baldwin into the next car, where he shot him down without warning. He then jumped from the train, but surrendered himself to a deputy sheriff and was taken to Arkansas City. Threats of mob violence were made, but the officers succeeded in getting the prisoner to jail safely. Allison claimed that he acted in self-defense.

Detroit, Sept. 19.—Joseph Kirwin, under arrest for chloroforming and robbing Mrs. Sweeting, while she was a passenger on the steamer Western States, from Buffalo to Detroit, has confessed. McMath is the son of Bill McMath, for many years turnkey at the city police station. He left the service of the city several years ago.

NOTHING DONE

Telephone Company Has Never
Paid the City the $3,000.

It is Understood the $3,000 Was Turned Over to an Outside Attorney.

The $3,000 for which the city recently compromised with the East Tennessee Telephone company has never yet been paid to the city. The council authorized Attorney J. C. Flinn to collect it, but the board of aldermen declined to concur and ordered City Treasurer Dorian to collect it.

It seems that although the money has to be paid into the city treasury to be paid to the city at all, no one else being authorized by law to collect it, some of the city officials are trying to allow an outside attorney to collect it and keep $1,250 of it.

Attorney Flinn, several days ago, tendered Treasurer Dorian a check for $1,750, the balance with $1,250 taken out, and Treasurer Dorian, who was ordered to collect the $3,000, declined to take it, which complicates matters.

It is understood that the telephone company sent the money to its attorneys here, and they paid it to Attorney Flinn, who was not authorized to receive it.

As the city has never received the $3,000 for which it compromised, the compromise is not effected so far as the city is concerned. The telephone company has never paid the $3,000 it agreed to pay as a result of the compromise, and it is not known what will now be done in the case.

PATROL DRIVER AUSTIN IS HURT

Turns up in Mississippi Badly Injured.

Has Been Struck In the Head—How
He Got There Is a Mystery to His Friends.

POLICE SHOCKED BY NEWS

Chief of Police James Collins and the Paducah police department were surprised to receive yesterday morning the following telegram, which had been forwarded by Chief of Police Ben Price, of Cairo, to whom it was sent by mistake:

"Vicksburg, Miss., Sept. 18, 1904.

John Austin in hospital. Doctors say that they can't tell for a day or two. He is out of his head and gives rambling statements. If he comes to himself they may not have to operate on him. But if not will have to operate on him. He was struck in the back of the head.

"WILLIAM PRICE,
Chief of Police."

Patrol Driver Austin left last Tuesday ostensibly for Elizabethtown, Ill., to bring home his family. He left Mr. Frank Bennett in his place, and it was thought would be gone but a few days.

Nothing was heard from him, and the police came to the conclusion that he was trying to play a joke on them, and posted in the city hall a notice offering $10 reward for information leading to his recovery. The telegram came as a shock to them. They have no idea how he got to Mississippi nor what he went for, but the general opinion is that during a temporary aberration he wandered away.

He seemed to be despondent at the depot the night he went away. Officer Aaron Hurley was at the depot and Officer Austin informed him that he was "going never to return." Officer Hurley stated that he did not think the patrol driver was drinking, but did think he was in some kind of trouble and thinking it possibly financial, offered to loan him money, which was refused.

"You have always been my friend, Hurley," Austin stated, and clasping his hand said "Good-bye forever, and say for me that I want Frank Bennett to have my job."

Officer Hurley thought his actions and speech rather queer, but paid no attention to him. He said that he was going to Cairo, from Cairo would go to Shawneetown on the Big Four, and drive across to Elizabethtown, where his family was visiting.

His family returned to Paducah last night on the Evansville packet, alarmed at his absence and at not receiving any word from him.

Officer Austin is a member of Mungum lodge, Odd Fellows, and also of the Red Men. Both lodges have wired to give him every attention, and are anxiously awaiting more definite news from him.

A special dispatch this afternoon from Vicksburg, Miss., to the Sun states that John Austin was sand-bagged by being struck in the back of the head by some unknown party on the river front on last Thursday, the 15th, in the evening about 6:20 p. m. He phoned Chief of Police Brine to come to see him at Erbanks drug store, having walked half a block or more. He was in a semi-conscious condition and has not regained his reason yet. He is suffering very much with pain in the back of his head and temples, also his back. D. B. Genascl, assistant chief of police, from whom the Sun received the telegram, adds: "I have phoned to hospital, 11:30 a. m., and they have him on operating table now."

HARROWING SCENES ABOUT PORT ARTHUR

Neither Side Respects the Flag of Truce.

The Japanese Get Very Fiercious and Kill Their Own Men For Surrendering.

WITHOUT A PARALLEL IN WAR

Chefoo, Sept. 19.—The temper of the belligerents at Port Arthur has reached an absolutely merciless stage.

Even flags of truce for surrender are not respected by either side.

Gen. Stoessel has addressed the garrison, saying that the present mood of the Japanese indicate clearly the necessity of resisting them to the last drop of Russian blood, because if the Japanese soldiers entered the fortress it will be impossible for their officers to control them and prevent massacre.

For this reason Stoessel is making no objection to civilians leaving Port Arthur, but 300 women, who are engaged in hospital work, refuse to leave, as they would rather face the possibility of massacre than desert their posts.

In consequence of the fact that flags of truce are ignored, numbers of Japanese dead who have been lying on the slopes of the hills of the northeast defense works are still unburied, and the stench in Port Arthur from the decomposing bodies, when the wind is in the right direction, is almost unendurable. Russian soldiers who are in some cases posted only 50 paces from the heaps of decaying dead, have constantly to wear over their noses handkerchiefs soaked in camphor, as otherwise they would be unable to remain at their posts.

In the course of the assaults which took place in the last four days of August two companies of Japanese, according to Radzivil, found themselves at the mercy of the Russians and hoisted the white flag. To this, however, the Russians paid no attention and continued to pour volleys rapidly into the helpless ranks of the enemy. In the meantime, Japanese troops in the rear of the companies that had raised the white flag, saw what their comrades had done and expressed their disapproval of the surrender by firing into the rear. As a result of this fire from their friends and foe, 600 men were annihilated.

The dead fell among the decomposing bodies of previous assaults.

For days afterwards wounded men in this area raised fluttering handkerchiefs in their hands in pleas for help, but the Russians were afraid to venture out to give succor.

Within a week the last arm had made its last unregarded prayer for help, and shamshes was a quiet, but ghastly field of horror.

Among the heaps of dead the prince saw two soldiers, one a Russian, another a Japanese, lying locked in a death embrace. The teeth of the Japanese were sunk in the Russian's throat, while the Russian had forced two fingers into the eye sockets of his antagonist.

DEMOCRATS ARE AGAIN KNOCKED OUT

Special Political Legislation Is Now "Getting Its."

Covington Judge Holds That Law Making Circuit Clerk Member of Election Board Is Unconstitutional.

AFFECTS McCRACKEN COUNTY

Another one of the democratic special political statutes has been knocked out in the lower courts by a democratic judge. The law prescribing that the third member of the county election board, or "referee," shall be the circuit clerk in counties containing second-class cities, is declared unconstitutional.

This law affected McCracken county. Under the election law in force for the past few years the sheriff has been the third member of the board, but the new law makes it the circuit clerk in McCracken, Kenton, Campbell and Fayette counties. The law was passed for the express purpose of getting off the election board in Kenton county a sheriff who was not friendly to the democratic state machine.

The style of the suit was Sheriff McInerney against Circuit Court Clerk Droege, and Saturday afternoon Special Judge John M. Lassing handed down his opinion at Covington. He refused to set aside the restraining order granted by County Judge Stevens which prevented Droege from acting as referee in the board of election commissioners and held that the special act of the legislature which took the right away from McInerney was unconstitutional. Judge Lassing said in part: "Two questions are raised for determination before there can be any consideration of the question raised by defendant's motion—first, did the county judge have the right and power under the law to issue the injunction herein; and, second, did the filing of the answer by defendant before making his motion deprive him of the right to have other than the regular presiding judge of the Kenton circuit court, the latter being absent from Kenton county?"

"As to the first question, I am of the opinion that the county judge, in the absence from the county of the regular presiding judge of the Kenton circuit court, had full power and authority to issue the restraining order, which he did on August 26, 1904, and that upon the issuing of said order his authority and right to act in this case ceased, and any further steps taken by him are void and of no effect. This leaves the restraining order in full force and effect.

"As to the second question, I am of the opinion that by filing his answer the defendant merely complied with the rules of practice in force in the Kenton circuit court and did not in any sense deprive himself of the right to make this motion to have the temporary restraining order dissolved before me or any other circuit judge. In the absence of the judge of the Kenton circuit court, from his county, to which rulings the plaintiff expects.

"The motion of the defendant to dissolve the temporary restraining order and set it aside and hold it for naught, is held to be properly before me for determination; and, being fully advised and having considered all the authorities cited by counsel for each side, I am of the opinion that the act of the legislature complained of is special class legislation, and as such is in conflict with the constitution; said act or so much thereof as is complained of, is adjudged to be unconstitutional and void. It is further adjudged that the temporary restraining order granted by the Hon. H. P. Stevens, county judge of Kenton county, on Aug. 26 be and remain in full force and effect until disposed of by final judgment of the Kenton circuit court."

The election commission of McCracken county meets here tomorrow, but as the decision at Covington will not effect McCracken county until the court of appeals passes on it, Circuit Clerk Emory Hobson will act with Capt. Ed. Farley and Mr. J. M. Martin.

SOME BASEBALL SEASON AFTERMATH

League's Final Meeting to be Held Here Sunday.

The Vincennes Team Has Not Yet Disbanded—Rain Prevents Game Here Yesterday.

GOODWIN'S GOOD CHANCE

The year's business of the K. I. T. league will probably soon be settled. The Cairo papers make it appear that the final meeting will be held in Cairo next Sunday, while President Thompson and other members of the league say it will be held in Paducah. There is a possibility of trouble as to the place of meeting, but Secretary Farnbacher will no doubt come to Paducah, and assist in winding up the year's business in a manner satisfactory to the remainder of the league.

It is true that he has the records, some of the league money, and other property, but Secretary Farnbacher has always been disposed to be fair and gentlemanly despite the "rumor" he has received from some quarters, and will likely not try to create discussion and confusion now that the league season is over.

The league is understood to have been financially successful. That all the clubs will be in it next season, with possibly two additional cities, seems likely. Clarksville has already begun to look out for players for next season, and so has Paducah. "Chief" Lloyd, the new manager for Paducah, knows every player in the country of any consequence, in the minor as well as in the big leagues. It has long been a sort of hobby with him to keep track of them all, and he can usually put his hands on a good man when anyone wants one.

Chief Lloyd himself was once a crack player in the Central league, and was tried out in the National league. He was a pitcher, but in the past few years has gotten out of practice.

There was great disappointment yesterday because the rain prevented the ball game to have been played at the park.

Vincennes is still playing ball. Friday the Reds beat the Mt. Carmel, Ill., club 7 to 0, with Goodwin in the box. Yesterday they beat the Creek Indians, and will play more games soon.

Fred Smeltz, the diminutive third baseman for Vincennes, received and news Friday as he stepped from the train. It was notice of his mother's death at Toledo, Ohio. He left at once and will not return until next year. He will again be with Vincennes.

Charlie Street, catcher last year for Hoptown, has made good so far as he has caught for the Cincinnati Nationals this season. He is now with the club, and the manager says he is going to take Street for "a swing around the circuit" so he can show his full line of goods.

Gill Edwards, who has been pitching in the Three I league, is back in Hopkinsville from a successful season. He pitched for a picked nine that played the K. I. T. league club, and the league shut them out 8 to 0. One hit was secured off Hoptown and 2 off of Edwards, but had support kept Edwards from making any better showing.

Baseball men predict that Clyde Goodwin, of Vincennes, will soon be one of the crack pitchers of the country. He gets a trial in the Pittsburgh Nationals next season, and a baseball man said today: "He is the only player I have seen in the K. I. T. league this season, laying aside all friendships and sentiment, who shows any sign of being out for fast company. I have seen them all play, and played myself for years, and know a little something about ball. I wish all the boys could get in faster company, and no doubt many of them will some time, but this fellow Goodwin is a winner. You watch him."

The Cairo Bulletin says:

"If every club in the league is glad that 'Paducah won the pennant,' they may have a chance after September 25 to be glad that Paducah did NOT win the pennant. There will be things doing on the 25th that are not scheduled."

The Cairo Citizen says:

"The statement of the Cairo Baseball and Athletic association shows that Cairo is the best town in the league, its gate receipts being more than those of any other town. Figures will not lie, what does Paducah have to say now?"

A Hopkinsville dispatch says:

"Another thing which has nettled every club more or less money has been the sale of their players. Especially is this true of the Cairo and Paducah clubs. The outlook for next season is very flattering for a still more successful season, and unless something entirely unforeseen occurs the Kitty league will be a drawing card next year, the only change being the addition of two cities so as to make it an eight-club circuit."

"Only three members of the Hopkinsville club have been sold as yet. One of these, Charles Bomar, of Eagleville, Tenn., was sold to Manager George Toben of the Louisville club. Bomar is not only one of the most successful pitchers of this league, but is an all-around man, having played nearly every position on the field for this club during the two seasons he has been with it. He is also a strong hitter. Moore and Marre were sold to Minneapolis. Moore is a catcher and first baseman and is second in the league batting. Marre is a second baseman of merit and although he is not a slugger he generally manages to reach first."

Next year every player in the K. I. T. baseball league will not have to tell fairy tales about his batting and holding average as this can be learned from the official scorer in each city. There is one thing that was managed right in the league this year and this is scoring. Each scorer under penalty of a fine, was forced to furnish every captain a complete summary of the game and every game played on a circuit was recorded on an extra summary sheet and given to the visiting captain. When the captain returned home, he filed these with the scorer who had the records of games played at home in his score book. In this way every city has a complete record of every game played by its team. The records of the league will be surprising, however, and from every indication there will be few hitters averaging over 300 per cent.

Taking the league season as a whole, the teams have played about as close ball as in any other league. The scores have been closer and the game more hotly contested than last season. The Kitty league has shown up wonderfully and since turning out several fast company men last season, the eyes of the National and American league magnates have been turned towards the Kitty league. Inasmuch as Pittsburgh took Land and Goodwin, and New York took Holycross for the New York American team.

The report of the secretary of the Cairo baseball club shows that after all its expenses have been paid the club has a neat total of $989.21 to commence the next season with. The report shows that Cairo paid to other teams in the league $1,323.39 more than was paid to Cairo. During the season Cairo received from other teams in the circuit, as their per cent, $2,260.32, while Cairo paid to the different teams as their per cent, $3,583.82. The report shows that the total income of the Cairo association was $12,201.18.

The following figures show what teams made the most money at Cairo:
Cairo paid to Paducah, $1,061.75
Cairo paid to Hopkinsville, 730.10
Cairo paid to Clarksville, 731.92
Cairo paid to Vincennes, 530.90
Cairo paid to Henderson, 450.00

The members of the Paducah baseball team will likely leave tonight for their homes.

Several are waiting for today to pass and if the game given for their benefit is not played today, Bateman, Lally, Benno, Doll, Freeman and Brady will go home tonight.

Gerard will likely remain in Paducah and also will Pett who will sign with Paducah next season. It is understood, in case Land cannot be gotten back, if the Big Man fails to make good in a bigger league.

HAD 500 TRUNKS

WANTED A SPECIAL TRAIN TO GO TO THE WAR.

Berlin, Sept. 19.—The Kaiser has had an end of family troubles since he returned from his annual vacation. The crown prince, during his absence, had behaved in a manner to scandalize and shock the people of Berlin and Potsdam, and had contracted considerable debts, which his father had to settle.

The connection of the Kaiser's brother-in-law, Prince Ernest Vincent, with the Mithras scandal was the talk of the empire, and last, not least, another brother-in-law, Prince Friedrich Leopold, had disgraced himself so thoroughly, that the Kaiser, in an attack of indignation, ordered him to Manchuria, expressing at the same time the sincere wish that he might be carried off by a Japanese bullet.

But the prince is evidently a greater strategist than his imperial brother-in-law and has completely outgeneraled the Kaiser.

When ordered to join the staff of General Kuropatkin as a military attaché, the prince replied that he would consider this a great honor and was delighted to go.

He will, however, not go now, and it has been officially explained that he is sick.

The real truth of the matter is, however, this: When ordered to go the prince lost no time in getting his baggage ready, and this was no small matter, as may be judged from the fact that he telegraphed the Russian minister of war asking to be given a special train to Mukden, mentioning in a casual way that his baggage consisted of a baggage of 500 trunks.

Great consternation at St. Petersburg!

The Trans-Siberian railroad is crowded with military supplies, and even generals leaving for the front are not allowed more than one trunk, and 500 trunks would mean an extra trainload.

The minister of railroads was in a terrible dilemma. He saw no way of transporting the baggage to the front without delaying necessary military shipments, and he did not dare take the risk of offending the Kaiser's brother-in-law, so he laid the matter before the czar in person.

Czar Nicholas immediately wrote an autograph letter to the Kaiser, asking him to use his influence with the prince to induce him to carry a little less baggage with him.

The Kaiser, furious, sent for the prince and asked him what he meant by exposing himself and the whole Hohenzollern family to public ridicule and ordered him to report sick.

The prince's health immediately grew very poor, and it was stated officially that on account of his sickness he would not be able to go to Manchuria.

And if the Kaiser is exceedingly angry both the prince and the czar are very much pleased.

THE BIG REVIVAL STILL DRAWS MANY

Large Crowds at the Services Yesterday.

The Jewish People Are Today Celebrating an Important Holiday.

NO MINISTERIAL MEETING

Despite the bad weather, the Holcomb meetings yesterday were well attended, and the singing of Mr. McKenzie was well received.

The meetings will be held daily at 10 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. during the week, and instead of the prayer meetings for women, tomorrow, there will be held a special service for women at 4 p. m. (Tuesday.)

On Saturday there will be a meeting for boys and girls, at 4 p. m., to which all are invited.

The interest in the meeting is growing daily and sermons and songs, are making impressions for good; a great revival of religion will result if the churches will continue in a united effort to reach and save the unsaved.

Last evening, gathered in the eve of the day of atonement, the most solemn and sacred day in the Jewish religious calendar. The service began at eventide Sunday and coincides at eventide today, and in every Jewish house of worship throughout the world, today is devoted to fasting, prayer and devotion, as an atonement for sins and transgression.

There is an old legend in one of the books of Jewish lore that during the ten days preceding this day of atonement, the books of the year are thrown open and an angel sits before them counting the unworthy thoughts and deeds of men. On the day of atonement at eventide these books are closed and the Jew who shall have not taken advantage of this opportunity to plead for forgiveness must be prepared for an accounting before the Divine Judge.

This legend merely indicates the powerful appeal this day has always made to the Jewish sense of personal righteousness and the day is still observed, despite the lapse of centuries, with a fervor and devotion fitting the solemnity of the occasion.

The State Convention of the Christian church will be held at Winchester, Ky., September 21, with this the principal order of exercises:

Rev. J. N. Strother, of Callis, Ky., was in the city today en route to Benton, Ky., to hold a meeting at the Benton Baptist church. He was a guest of Rev. G. W. Perryman, of the First Baptist church.

Owing to the revival in progress there was no meeting of the Ministerial Association this morning. A few members met and adjourned to the Broadway Methodist church.

Nearly all the local choruses had big crowds yesterday, despite the weather.

EVERYBODY IN PADUCAH IS GETTING A BUCK'S

No store ever sold so many stoves and ranges in one week's time before. No store ever had such a happy lot of customers within its doors in a single week—and no store ever appreciated such an unusual response from the buying public as we do.

We expected lively buying, of course; for the offer to sell Buck's, the admitted best Stoves and Ranges in the world, at 10 cents a day is a remarkable one, to say the least, but we did not expect to be treated so generously as we were.

The news is—and it's certainly the best news a store ever gave out—that this offer continues. Any Buck's Steel Range, Cook Stove or Heater in the house, set up in your home, for 10 cents a day. Pay weekly or monthly as you like. You choose from the largest, most complete, most attractive, most fairly priced line of high grade stoves and ranges in the world.

Everybody is getting one—get yours.

Remember, that we take your old stove in exchange for a new Buck's, allowing you every bit it's worth.

A ROUSTER KILLED

Charleston Encounters a Stormy Time Above Here.

Struck by a Storm Near Birmingham, Marshall County, Tuesday Night.

The officers on the steamer Charleston, just in from a trip up Tennessee river, report a disastrous storm last Tuesday night near Birmingham, Marshall county.

Early in the evening the boat was caught in a whirlwind a mile above Birmingham and it was decided to land her. The wind blew with much fury, and the pilot could not guide the craft with much certainty of success.

She was driven towards the right bank, and while the mate was trying to handle her properly the boat struck the bank with a heavy thud on a large, heavy, fallen tree top, parting the main gun from the main mast to the point of the stage boom.

The boom fell on one of the colored deck hands, name unknown, and rendered him unconscious, in which condition he remained for about eighteen hours.

As soon as the storm abated Capt. J. B. Smith took the boat back to Birmingham where he could get medical attention. Nothing could be done with the man, and he died at Birmingham.

The boat escaped injury and there was no little excitement among the passengers during the storm.

SPRAINS.

S. A. Road, Cisco, Texas, writes, March 11th, 1901: "My wrist was sprained so badly by a fall that it was useless; and after using several remedies that failed to give relief, used Ballard's Snow Liniment, and was cured. I earnestly recommend it in any one suffering from sprains." 25c, 50c, $1.00. Sold by Dulbois, Kolb & Co.

WILL SAVE HIS FINGER.

Deputy Sheriff Irvin Pitter is in the city and says his finger will not have to be amputated. He shot it while chasing the cartridge chamber of his pistol last week. The wound is healing nicely.

Mr. John Donovan, agent for the local T. C. returned from Chicago today.

STILL GONE

ATTORNEY JESSE MOSS HAS NOT BEEN HEARD FROM.

Nothing has been heard from Lawyer Jesse Moss who is alleged to have left Woodville last week after an indictment was returned against him here alleging that he had misappropriated $800 of Widow Crockett's insurance money he is alleged to have collected.

Attorney Moss was also treasurer of the local Eagles Lodge under course of organization, and had a number of the charter membership fees turned in. Just prior to his departure for Woodville to spend his vacation, he telephoned to The Sun to state to those who had placed such fees with him, that they could secure them by wiring him or if they got together and named some one to act as treasurer, he would resign and turn the money over to him. It is understood that the money is deposited in a local bank.

LAND BACK

POPULAR PADUCAH CATCHER
SIGNED WITH PITTSBURG.

Grover Land, The Indians' catfisher who left here Thursday with the Pirates, Pittsburgh's National League ball team, to try out, returned to Paducah this morning.

Land did not stay with the Pirates because the race for second place is so close that they did not wish to work him. He settled about his trip.

"We left here Thursday night and the bunch is the jolliest I was ever with. They are all good fellows and Honas Wagner, the star all-round player, and I struck up a comradeship. Wagner took me to the fair and we had a great time. He likes Paducah and says Kentucky is the best state in the union.

"Pittsburg is making a hard fight for second place and Manager Fred Clarke said to me that he would take me around the circuit if I wanted to go but I would not get any salary and he couldn't work me as he intended because of the fight for second place. He sent Archer, the catcher who worked here, home too. Archer was secured July 2 from the Eastern League and his home is in Toronto, Canada. Smith, his regular catcher, is back in the game and Smith and Phelps will alternate. I signed a contract with him for next season, however, and may have a chance then to work with the big leaguers."

Land stopped off here to see the other boys and will leave for his home in Frankfort in a day or two. Land is a stone cutter and will work at his trade this winter. He says he will be back in Kitty uniform next year if he does not go into a bigger league, and will play with Paducah again. The local management is holding him in reserve.

K. I. T. SECRETARY

MR. ARTHUR E. BAILEY TO RUN FOR THE PLACE.

Mr. Arthur E. Bailey, formerly sporting editor on the Paducah News-Democrat, is a candidate for secretary of the K. I. T. League next year. It is understood that the present secretary, M. J. Fernbaker, will not accept the honor next season and a better man could not be selected than Mr. Bailey. He is thoroughly posted on baseball and has been a big figure in winning the pennant for Paducah. His criticisms have counted. Mr. Bailey has been correspondent for the entire league for several out of town papers and was instrumental in placing several Kitty players with faster company. He is very popular with the Kitty officials and has a good chance for the secretaryship if Mr. Fernbaker does not make the race.

ONE SUSPECT

UNDER ARREST FOR THE BREEDEN ROBBERY.

Saturday night a thief entered the rear of the B. B. Breeden drug store at Ninth and Trimble streets as Mrs. Breeden was standing on the sidewalk, and tried to get into the cash drawer.

Mrs. Breeden heard the noise and went inside. She got within three feet of the thief and said "so I have caught you stealing, haven't I?" The negro pulled a gun and commanded her to stand aside and he proceeded to take the cash out of the drawer. He secured $10 and a ring valued at about $10.

Mrs. Breeden gave the alarm after the thief had coolly walked out with the money but he escaped. Tom Roy, colored, was arrested on charge of being implicated in the robbery. He was not the negro who actually tapped the till but Mr. Breeden thinks there is an organized gang of thieves of which Roy is a member and the police are beginning to ferret them out and will break it up. Roy is still being held.

Mud will only stick to mud.

DAILY THOUGHT.

Cultivate placidity, serenity, and poise, mental and physical. Do not allow anything to throw you off your balance. A centered life is a long life.

THE WEATHER.

Showers for tonight. Tuesday fair weather.

THE SAME OLD TACTICS.

Evidently the word has gone out from

Esopus and democratic headquarters to ignore the money question entirely, the tariff question and other great issues of the campaign and devote the entire energies of spellbinders and editorial writers to pounding Roosevelt. This is not the first time by any means that such tactics have been resorted to. It will be interesting and instructive to go back to the campaign of 1894 when the war and Lincoln were called failures.

Let us quote a plank from the democratic platform of that year which reads as follows:

"RESOLVED, That this convention

does explicitly declare, as the sense of the American people, that after four years of failure to restore the Union by the experiment of war, during which,

under the pretense of military necessity,

or war power higher than the constitution, the constitution itself has been disregarded in every part and public liberty and private right alike trodden down, and the material prosperity of the country essentially impaired, justice,

humanity, liberty and the public welfare demand that immediate efforts be made for a cessation of hostilities, etc."

Even McClellan, the democratic nominee for president, could not stand this and absolutely repudiated the platform of his own party. The triumphal election of Lincoln of course followed.

Coming down to 1892 we find again the same condition of affairs. Grant was called a tyrant, a czar, an emperor, a king and the platform of that year contained the following plank:

"The president of the United States course instead of simply denouncing in general terms a president who has shudply done his duty where his duty has been made plain to him, without fear of conscience and without fear of defeat at the polls.

The democratic press, by its wholesale charges that the republican party is "plundering" federal office holders, indicates that it is in hard lines for campaign material. The claims are absurd.
The law does not permit the assessment of federal officials for political purposes,

and if a single one has been "plundered" he should prosecute those who "plundered," and if he does he will have the aid of the republican party in doing it.

Many republicans, irrespective of whether or not they hold office, have been invited to contribute to the campaign fund.
Many have not been asked. If they want to they can, and if they do not they do not have to. A large part of the federal employes claimed to have been "plundered" are under civil service, are democrats, have never contributed a cent to the republican campaign fund and could not possibly be dismissed if they failed to contribute to the campaign fund.

yet the democratic press is trying to prejudice the public mind against republicans by asserting that these federal employes must be "gouged" or lose their jobs. In Paducah quite a number of the men in the postoffice are democrats, under the civil service, and have been holding their positions for years without ever contributing a cent to any republican fund. Have any of them ever lost their jobs on account of it? The democratic papers must credit their readers with very little common intelligence if they expect them to believe such rot as they are now publishing about the republican campaign demands.

The democrats have employed counsel to fight the decision holding that the registration certificate law is unconstitutional.
Their actions plainly show the motives behind the passage of such a corrupt measure. The law itself shows what it was passed for. It requires a man to register, get a certificate, and show the certificate before he can vote.
The old law required a voter to register, and county officials kept a record of the fact, which was sufficient. The new law enables a man to get a new certificate if he pays 50 cents, but he may not have the fifty cents when he needs it most. If there were dishonest county officials they could work it to a queen's taste, but the real object is to enable the democrats to buy up the certificates with impunity where they need them most, and keep as many of the opposition as possible from voting.

The gold standard element of the Democratic party was in a hopeless minority in the St. Louis convention. The majority of the Democrats of the nation stand on the platform which silently endorses the free silver plank of the Kansas City convention.

If there is a single trade or industry in this country that is injured by the tariff system, the Democratic party has not been able to point to it.

It does not require the thinking voter long to choose between Governor Taft and Carl Schurz as a guide for action in Philippine matters.

Democratic chances might be brighter if the wage earners of the nation
did not have such good memories.

CURRENCY REFORM

NOT AN ISSUE

(From the Wall Street Journal.)

The advocates of the present currency system, and advocates of credit currency, of emergency circulation and of the various other schemes of currency are blocking the way of each other so far as any governmental action is concerned. The last two secretaries of the treasury have been advocates of some form of credit currency, but the Republican party could not take up the subject in a practical way until it was confident of the support of the business interests of the country.

The confusion which exists in business circles on this subject is illustrated by the fact that one of our financial leaders changed his views in regard to the subject three or four times in the course of one winter. In view of this uncertainty it is certainly out of the question to expect that those responsible for party policies and party action will make the currency reform an issue in the campaign.

"SINK OR SWIM, LIVE OR DIE, SUR-VIVE OR PERISH"I will support the declaration of Independence." These were the words of old John Adams in the Continental Congress which adopted the declaration of independence. Vol. 1, Statesmen and Orators. Read his inaugural supporting that measure.

PALMER'S THE BEST

SLEETH'S DRUG STORE

THE NEW FILTER

MANY PEOPLE DO NOT KNOW HOW IT WORKS. IT SEEMS.

A great many people in Paducah do not understand how the new $100,000 filter just installed by the Water Company works, and are under the impression that the old standpipe has been abandoned.

This is a mistake. The water is now pumped direct from the Ohio river into the new reservoir, and after being "settled" is sent into the filter. After being filtered it is run into the "clear water basins," and from there goes into the big standpipe as clear as crystal. The old standpipe is necessary to keep always on hand an adequate supply, and to give the necessary pressure in the pipes for supplying the town and use during fires.

CURE FOR ANTI-IMPERIALISM.
(From the Boston Journal.)
David Gray, a well known newspaper and magazine writer, voted for Bryan in 1900 on the Philippine issue exclusively. As a writer in the editorial columns of a Democratic newspaper he attacked continuously the policy of the Republican administration in the islands "for its violence both to our constitutional policy and to the rights of a weak people."

Then he went to the Philippines, with the express purpose of gathering facts
"with which to prosecute a campaign for Filipino emancipation." He spent weeks in the islands. He soon discovered that his preconceptions were mistaken. He says:

"I went to the Philippine islands convinced that our retention of them was an international crime; I left them convinced that any other course than that which we are pursuing would be a breach of international humanity, comparable to leaving a helpless infant to perish in the storm. . . . Any agitation in this country with Filipino independence as its object can work as a cruelly unsettling and dangerous influence, tending to postpone what it seeks to hasten. Aguinaldo's former secretary of state said to me: 'The Philippines have three great needs, and none of them is independence. The first is schools, the second is more schools, and the third is more schools.'" This is a true saying. . . . To interfere with Mr. Taft's work before the foundation is established, to give the half-educated, irresponsible and dangerous Filipino demagogues, and there are many of these, an opportunity for believing that our policy toward the islands is to be a vacillating and changeable one, dependent upon the mutations of American politics, would be a crime with effects too far-reaching to be anticipated. . . . If such men as Mr. Charles Francis Adams, Mr.
Moorefield Storey and the distinguished and rightly venerated president of Harvard, to say nothing of my fellow-Democrats who have framed the Philippine plank of the St. Louis platform, will go to the islands and ascertain the facts at first hand, I should be ready to trust their conclusions before my own."

AN ATLANTA WEDDING.

The Atlanta Constitution gives the following account of a wedding in which a young lady who has frequently visited in Paducah, was the bride:
"One of the first of the fall weddings was that of Miss Rose White Steinhagen and Mr. Clarence Blosser, which occurred yesterday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Prof. and Mrs. Rudolph Steinhagen, on Carnegie way.

"The ceremony at 6:30 o'clock was very impressive, Dr. H. S. Bradley officiating, and it was followed by a brief reception. Palms and golden-rod formed the principal decorations in the house and on the porch, which was enclosed for the occasion. Music announced the hour for the ceremony, Mr. John Muller singing with appropriate sentiment De-Koven's 'O Promise Me' before the entrance of the bride party, and Dr. J. Lewis Browne played the wedding march.

"When Dr. Bradley had taken his place, Mr. Blosser entered with his best man, Mr. John Brannan, of Nashville, and they were followed by Miss Jeanette Campbell of Paducah, Ky., maid of honor. She wore a gown of white organdy with a touch of yellow, and she bore an armful of bridesmaid roses.
"The bride entered with her father, and she was strikingly lovely in her toilette of white, the gown an exquisite creation of crepe de chene and valencienne lace, all fashioned with hand-work. The graceful veil was held in place by fillets of the valley, and the bridal bouquet was of Nide roses and lilies of the valley. During the reception delicious refreshments were served. At the punch bowl Mrs. Florence Walde, sister of the bride, presided."

IS BETTER

PENNSYLVANIA MAN THOUGHT HE WAS THE SAVIOR.

Isaac Oppenheimer came here several days ago from Tennessee river bridge where he had been working and deposited $40 in a local bank.

Saturday night he was found standing about on the street corner preaching. He said he was "Jesus Christ," and that he would shortly be crucified and for the people to follow him and see the thing pulled off right. He was locked up and gave the name of the Savior as his real name. This morning he said he felt alright and that he was simply laboring under a "spell," the first he had had in four months. He stated he lived in Erie, Pa., and had been away from home some time. He was taken to the bank by a policeman and his money secured. He stated he would go to Memphis from Paducah tonight.

HEAD SEVERED

TEXAN ASSASSINATED AND HIS DAUGHTERS ARRESTED FOR THE CRIME.

Marlin, Tex., Sept. 19.—Last night C. S. Stuart, commonly known as "Red" Stuart, living in the western part of the county, while asleep on his gallery was assassinated, his head being severed from his body with an ax. The ax was found lying by his side. His head was a foot from his body.

Stuart was a widower, and resided with his three girls, who were spending the night away from home.

It is thought robbery was the motive. After being interrogated by County Attorney Carter and Sheriff Greer, two of Stuart's daughters, aged 13 and 15, were placed under arrest and released on a $1,000 bond, which was readily made.

Theatrical Notes

The Frank Dudley Company, one of the best on the road, opens a week's engagement at the Kentucky tonight.

Mr. Harry Miller Cunningham, the well known local musician, is still working on original compositions and by next summer will have composed many sets of waltzes and marches. Mr. Cunningham this summer composed several pretty waltzes and marches, two of which were arranged by Herbert Clark, the famous cornetist, and the late marches Mr. Cunningham is arranging himself. He intends to have composed and arranged several dozen compositions by summer when an entire programme of "Cunningham's stuff" as his band comrades call it, will be played by Dean's band.

Prof. Deal's Orchestra will tonight inaugurate its season at the Kentucky theater. It will play during the week for the Dudley Company, which opens this evening.

The first one night stand play of the season at the Kentucky will be Richard Carle, in "The Tenderfoot," on the evening of Thursday, the 29th.

"Dumny" Hughes today signed a contract with the Paducah management for next season to play first base for the Indians. Hughes is the right kind of first baseman, hitting as well as fielding and he has been recognized the best in the league. Hughes says he likes Paducah and will report next season early. He will go home to Louisville tonight.

Mineral waters are recognized everywhere as the most efficient, as well as the least injurious, cathartics. Abilena is the best mineral water on the American market. It is the American Natural Cathartic. The discovery of Abilena was a simple revelation of nature. For a long time a ter the first well was dug, the water, being unfit for domestic purposes, was not used at all. Practical tests afterward disclosed its medicinal properties and the report of its virtue was rapidly disseminated. Finally several chemists analyzed the water and the results manifested its great therapeutic value and preindicated its future renown. Sold only by

DEMOCRATS FLOUNDER.

It is difficult to find out from the utterances of our opponents what are the real issues upon which they propose to wage this campaign. It is not unfair to say that, having abandoned most of the principles upon which they have insisted during the last eight years, they now seem at a loss both as to what it is they really believe and as to how fruitfully they shall assert their belief in anything.

THE REV. MR. DINSMORE

By ROB MCHEYNE

Copyright, 1901, by R. M. George

Scroggsfield was to have a new minister. The whole village was interested, for, although there were several churches in the little hamlet, this was the first new minister to appear in a whole generation.

The deacons' committee had divided on the subject, some favoring a young man and some an older and wiser head, but Brother Williams had turned the scale by threatening to withdraw his subscription unless a young and "progressive" man should be called.

Accordingly after much lobbying on the part of the Ladies' Aid society it was announced that the Rev. Mr. Dinsmore, a young student of divinity, had been selected and that he would occupy the pulpit the following Sunday.

Saturday morning came, and as the new minister had not yet put in an appearance the village was on the alert, it would surely come that day.

They were not disappointed. When the 11:10 train pulled into the depot a stranger stepped off and presented himself at the ticket window.

He was a most affable young man and was jauntily dressed.

"Good morning," he said, and he put such an emphasis on the word that it sounded almost like a chant.

Miss Williams, the operator, looked up from her lunch and quickly slipped a half eaten egg into her apron pocket.

"Can you tell me, madam," said the gentleman, smiling, "everything I want to know about this historic and progressive city of Scroggsfield?"

"I—why, yes, sir, I think so, if you please, sir," she stammered, quite overcome.

"Well, that's lucky for me," the stranger exclaimed enthusiastically. "Now, if you will," he continued, "just tell me

"I AM THE REV. MR. DINSMORE," where the new church is located, and, I swear, I'll remember you in my daily prayers."

The operator had begun to resent his manner, but now she understood. It was the new minister.

"He's on South Main street, the church is," she said, "right next to Farham's drug store and hat emporium. But nobody you'd better go down to our house and see paw. He's on the deacons' committee and can tell you anything you want to know."

"Thanks," replied the affable stranger, pushing his Panama on to the back of his head and winking boldly at the abashed and flustered girl. "I'll call on you, but not specially when your paw's at home. Oh, by the way, Miss—Miss—"

He waited.

"Williams," she said.

"Ah, Miss Williams. Well, now, Miss Williams, tell your paw I'll meet the committee at the church this evening at 5. That's a good girl. Thanks. Now, where's the hotel?"

Miss Williams looked askance. "The Temperance House is right across from the church," she said.

The stranger gulped hard and went out.

Within five minutes the deacons' daughter had managed to get the word to her folks, and the village soon knew that the new minister was in town.

When Deacon Williams started round to tell the rest of the committee he met the indignant president of the Ladies' Aid society upon his doorstep.

"What kind of a man is this young Dinsmore?" she demanded. "If he preaches tomorrow you can drop my name from the subscription list."

The deacon stared blindly.

"He's been throwing kisses at my daughter from the balcony of the Grandview hotel," she continued, "and, what's more, she's been throwing them back."

The deacon looked pained and refused to believe it. But at the first corner he was stopped by the village postmaster.

"Huh," says he, "that's a nice kind of a minister you've picked up. He's just won $5 off Harney Miller on a dog fight."

The deacon turned to go.

"He says he'll save that church from being struck off the face of the ninth with a thunderbolt," called the postmaster.

"They told me Rev. Dinsmore had original methods," mused the deacon, "but bettin' on dog fights an' sparkin' with the girls in public's too original."

At Brother Andrews' he met three members of the Ladies' Aid society, all talking at once. "From the medley of voices he learned that the new minister had been seen to drink five whisky highballs within a half hour, and that he had asked the buxom widow Carewe to go driving with him."

The ladies were still talking when the good deacon made his escape and set out for the house of another committee member, whither Brother Andrews had already preceded him.

The brethren met him with reproachful silence. Brother Andrews was the first to speak.

"Well, deacon," he said, "you see what your progressiveness has come to."

The deacon shook his head in solemn self-reproach. "Well, Brother Andrews," he said finally, "I'm afraid this young Dinsmore's too progressive for Scroggsfield, but we'll have a chance to sound him. He's asked me to gather the committee at the church this afternoon. That's what I came around for."

The three old deacons started solemnly off for the church. In the street there was a great commotion as two teams were dashing up and down the main thoroughfare, neck and neck, the drivers hailing in lusty tones and brandishing their whips.

As the foremost team passed the three deacons, Brother Andrews recognized the widow Carewe, snailing away from her place beside the dauntless Dinsmore. In another instant the sporting parson had turned his horses and was drawing up at the church door.

"Ha!" he exclaimed, slapping the deacons one by one upon the shoulder. "I'm just in time, I see. Fine church this." He waved his hand affably. "Come in, come in. I'll not detain you but a minute. And he led the way into the little anteroom, where the rest of the committee sat awaiting an opportunity to pass on Rev. Dinsmore.

"Now, gentlemen," he said, turning and shifting his hat to the back of his head. "I called you out here to talk to you about the salvation of this church. I tell you, gentlemen, you're to be commended and congratulated in having built so fine an edifice to the glory of Scroggsfield. But, I tell you, gentlemen, you've built this church in defiance of eternal laws—inva that are not to be defied by man. I wonder, gentlemen, that our magnificent building hasn't been struck down by a thunderbolt from heaven. I—"

A meek mannered stranger, wearing thick glasses and carrying a badly scuffed grip-sack, had entered the door and was approaching timidly. The speaker stopped in the midst of his harangue, and the newcomer stood looking from one to another.

"I am the Rev. Mr. Dinsmore," he said apologetically. "Can you tell me—"

"What?" cried the six, starting to their feet.

"Dinsmore," said the stranger faintly.

"Then who are you?" demanded Deacon Williams of the first stranger.

"I beg your pardon, gentlemen—my card," and the speaker graciously presented one to each of the committee.

"J. P. Howard, Esquire," he went on proudly, "representing the greatest lightning rod establishment in the world. I tell you, gentlemen, your magnificent building is in eternal danger from the fierce and vengeful ravages of—"

But the committee were busily engaged shaking hands with each other and with the Rev. Mr. Dinsmore.

Savage and Civilized Dress.
Writing of "Savage and Civilized Dress," Edwin Swift Hatch says that, while it might be assumed that the superior development of the brain of civilized man would result in some form of dress far better and more tasteful than anything found among savages, it may be doubted whether this is the case.

One unmarked error of civilized dress is its interference with the proper ventilation of the skin. The human animal breathes with his entire skin. Refuse water is thrown off as perspiration through every pore. The fact is well known, but in the garments of civilization it is almost universally unrecognized.

Savages readily discern that the most curious deformity noticed by civilized people is produced in their feet by means of the civilized shoe. A medical officer asserts that a large proportion of the volunteers for the United States army have to be rejected on account of imperfect feet. Savage people do not distort their feet. They wear sandals or moccasins or fur boots, but their footgear always conforms to and does not have to be broken in by the foot.

The Gad Whip.
A quaint custom of very old date was observed until 1845 in the parish of Canisor, Lincolnshire, England. A representative of the estate of Ithorlough came into the church porch during the reading of the first lesson and three times cracked a gad whip, which he folded neatly up. He then retired to a seat and during the reading of the second lesson approached the minister with the whip held upright and fixed to its upper end a purse containing thirty pence of silver.

The precise origin of the custom is uncertain. There is reference no doubt to the gospel story in the thirty pence of silver, and there may be some connection with the ancient custom of the "procession of the wax," another Palm Sunday observance of the early church, in the whip.

The term "gad whip" has puzzled British antiquaries, but it is probably akin to the "gad" used in the time of Burns for driving horses.—London Express.

The all-absorbing question which shall be elected president of the United States or what is the politics of today, read the great speech of John D. Ingalls in the U. Moran of the Lady Letty

By
FRANK NORRIS.
Author of "The Octopus," "The Fid," etc.
Copyright, 1924, by
S. S. McClure Company

"Oh, my!" repeated Miss Herrick in disgust, half closing her eyes. "To

"I'm very pleased to meet Miss Sternersen."

think of what you must have been through! I thought you had some kind of a yield. I had no idea it would be like this." And as she spoke Moran came suddenly upon the group from behind the forewall and pushed in abrupt surprise, her thumbs in her belt.

She still wore men's clothes and was booted to the knee. The heavy blue woolen skirt was open at the throat.
The sleeves rolled halfway up her large white arms. In her belt she carried her haphazard Scandinavian dirk.
She was limbo as ever, and her heavy, fragrant cables of rye husk hair fell over her shoulders and bristled far below her belt.

Miss Herrick started sharply, and Moran turned an inquiring glance upon Wilbur. Wilbur took his resolution in both hands.

"Miss Herrick," he said, "this is Moran—Moran Sterner." "Moran took a step forward, holding out her hand. Josie, all bewildered, put her tight gloved fingers into the enthusiastic palm, looking up nervously into Moran's face.

"I'm sure," she said feebly, almost breathlessly—"I'm sure I'm very pleased to meet Miss Sterner."

It was long before the picture left Wilbur's imagination. Josie Herrick, petite, gowned in white, crisp from her maid's grooming, and Moran, a raw and daughter of a hundred Vikings, towering above her, booted and belted, gravelly clasping Josie's hand in her own huge fist.

CHAPTER XIII.

SAN FRANCISCO once more!
For two days the Bertha Milner had been beating up the coast, fighting her way against northerly winds, battling into land again.

The warmth, the stillness, the placid, drowsing quiet of Magdalena bay, steaming under the golden eye of a tropic heaven, the white, baked beach, the bay lands, straitened by the narrow inlet, the morning, the contentment of the sun, the shimmer of stars and rising moon, were now replaced by the hale and vigorous snoring of the trades, the roll of breakers to landward and the unrelenting gallop of the unnumbered multitudes of gray green seas careering silently past the schooner, their crests occasionally kissing into benignant eruptions of white foam or smiting broad on under her counter, showering her decks with a spray of icy spray. It was cold. At times thick fogs shrouded all the world of water. To the east a procession of black hills drifted slowly seaward.
Light-houses were passed; steamers of smoke on the western horizon under the passage of steamships, and once they met and passed close by a huge cape Horn, a great deep sea tramp, all sails set and drawing, rolling slowly and leisurely in seas that made the schooner dance.

At last the Paradoxes looked over the ocean's edge to the north; then came the whistling buoy, the Seal rocks, the Hends, Point Reyes, the Golden Gate flanked by the old red Pinnacles, Lime point with its white cannon, and by noon of a gray and boisterous day, under a lustrous sky and a slant of rain, just five months after her departure, the Bertha Milner let go her anchor in San Francisco bay some few hundred yards off the life-boat station.

In this berth the schooner was still three or four miles from the city and the water front. But Moran detected any nearer approach to civilization, and Wilbur himself was willing to avoid, at least for one day, the publicity which he believed the Bertha's reappearance was sure to attract. He remembered, too, that the little boat carried with her a fortune of $100,- 000 and decided that until it could be safely landed and stored it was not desirable that its existence should be known along "the front."

For days, weeks even, Wilbur had looked eagerly forward to this return to his home. He had seen himself again in his former haunts, in his club and in the houses along Pacific avenue, where he was received, but no sooner had the anchor chain ceased rattling in the Bertha's massive pipe than a strange revulsion came upon him. The new man that seemed to have suddenly sprung to life within him, the Wilbur who was the mate of the Bertha Milner, the Wilbur who belonged to Moran, believed that he could see nothing to be desired in city life. For him was the unsteady deck of a schooner, and the great winds and the tremendous wheel of the ocean's rim, and the horizon that ever fled before his following prow; so he told himself, no ho betwixt. What attractions could the city offer him, what amusements, what excitements? He had been doing off the smoothly spinning circumfer-ence of well ordered life out into the wild.

He had known romance and the spell of the great, simple and primitive emotions; he had sat down to eat with buccaniers; he had seen the fierce, quick leap of unfeathered passions and had felt death sweep close at his nape and pass like a swift spirit of cold air.
City life, his old life, had no charm for him now. Wilbur honestly believed that he was changed to his heart's core. He thought that, like Moran, he was henceforth to be a sailor of the sea, a rover, and he saw the rest of his existence passed with her aboard their faithful little schooner. They would have the whole round world as their playground; they took the earth and the great sea in their hands; there was no one to let or to hinder. They belonged to each other, three outside the Hends again and they swept the land of cities and of little things behind them, and they two were left alone once more, alone in the great world of romance.

About an hour after her arrival off the station, while Hmong and the hands were furling the jib and foremast and getting the dory over the side, Moran remarked to Wilbur:

"It's good we came in when we did
now. The glass is going down fast, and the wind's breezing up from the west. We're going to have a blow.
The tide will be going out in a little while, and we never could have come in against wind and tide."

"Moran," said Wilbur, "I'm going ashore into the station here. There's a telephone line there. See the wires? I can't so much as turn my hand over before I have some shore-going cables.
What do you suppose they would do to me if I happened on Kearney street in this outfit? I'll ring up the wholesale chemists in town and have an agent come out here and talk business to us about our ambergris. We've got to pay the men their prize money.
Then as soon as we get our own money in hand we can talk about overhauling and outfitting the Bertha."

Moran refused to accompany him ashore and into the lifeboat station.
Booted and booted were an object of suspicion to her. Already she had begun to be uneasy at the distant sight of the city of San Francisco, Nob, Telegraph, Mission and Rincon hills, all swarming with buildings and grooved with streets. Even the landlocked harbor fretted her. Wilbur could see she felt imprisoned, confined. When he had pointed out the Palace hotel to her—a vast gray cube in the distance, overlooking the surrounding roofs—she had sworn under her breath.

"And people can live there! Good heavens! Why not rabbit burrows and be done with it? Mate, how soon can we be out to sea again? I hate this place."

GEMS TAKEN FROM TOM WATSON'S SPEECH

I can understand why the citizen could vote a local Democratic ticket; I can understand how in some cities and in some states that party may be struggling to do some distinct thing, which he believes ought to be done; but in the name of common sense tell me why any sane and sober citizen should in this campaign vote the national Democratic ticket.

What principle of Democracy does it stand for? What does it propose to do for the people, different from what the Republicans are doing? To what point is it directing its line of march, except to the Republican camp? Surrounded by the Wall street magnates who had financed his campaign for two years, Judge Parker bled his time till the perils of the two-thirds rule were passed; and when it was too late for the convention to retract its steps—for even the Democratic bosses require more than fifteen minutes to turn completely around in—he cracks the Wall street whip over the heads of his leaders, and with prompt obedience the great Democratic legions were made to furl their flags and reverse their line of march.

Never in the world could it emphasize itself on any issue as it did on the money question from 1896 to the year 1904. If all the writings and all of the speeches which made against the Republican party on the money question were put into printed form and loaded for transport upon the backs of camels the caravan would stretch from one end to the other of the great Sahara Desert.
Did they understand the money question? If not, how do we know that they understand the money question? In their campaign book of 1896 the Democratic leaders say: "We are unalterably opposed to monetarism."

Do the Democratic leaders suppose for one moment that the voters of this country are going to forget the history of the past eight years? Do they imagine for a moment that, when they stand in the attitude of confessing as colossal a blunder as they made upon the money question, they are going to be trusted on any other question? I again ask, did they know what they were talking about during those eight years, or were they simply deceiving the American people?

The campaign has hardly been opened before the standard bearer of Democracy commences his retreat. Therefore, the great tariff question may be considered as "waived," just as the great money question is "waived."

Let us see what else the National Democratic party presents as an issue.
In their platform they declare that further legislation is needed against the trusts, but their candidate, in his speech of acceptance, says that we have as much law as we need.

And as further proof that the Democratic platform will never cause any loss of sleep to the Havesomeys, the Rockefellers, you have only to remember that in 1892 they denounced the trusts and the protective tariff, within whose barriers all trusts are formed, in language equally as strong as that used in the platform of 1904; and when we consider the meaning of the platform of '92 in the light of the admitted infidelity of Cleveland's second administration with its well remembered surrender to the sugar trust, the patriotic citizen might heartily exclaim, "God deliver us from another redemption of this country!"

MEMPHIS MAN SAYS HE INHERITED OVER TWO MILLION DOLLARS

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 17.—Frank Bread, who has been in Memphis only a few days, and who is garbed like a common laborer, declares boldly that he intends, within the next year, to build a million-dollar building, to erect a 10,000 residence and to marry him a wife. He occupies a moderately furnished room in a boarding-house on Shelby street and yet he claims to be heir to $2,500,- 000.

As romantic as all this appears on his face, it is still entirely credible. Mr.
Bread tells the story simply and effectively. He declares that he is of French birth, but has never lived in France.
Still he says he is to receive $2,500,000 from that country, the money to come from an estate owned by the Bread family in France. He says it consists of property in Paris and all of an entire village at Quimperle, about 130 miles north of that city. He says that he and his brothers have traced the estate back as far as 1290, showing that it is one of the oldest on record. It was owned by another branch of the family, but this branch dwindled down to two priests and an old bachelor, leaving only the members of his branch. Continuing, he says:
"About seven years ago lawyers in Democratic pledges on the subject of the tariff and trusts."

Let us presume that Judge Parker, against whose character I would not venture to say a word, for I believe him to be an eminently worthy man—let us presume, I say, that Judge Parker, as the champion and representative of the great Democratic party, has the courage of his convictions. If we do presume this, his failure to state wherein he would make any change in the policy which the Republicans are pursuing in the Philippines is the most significant bit of silence in all of the various and interesting bits of silence to be found in Judge Parker's remarkable speech of acceptance.

The two platforms almost identical?
Certainly they are, boiled down to its real essence, sifted to its real meaning.
The Democratic campaign of 1904 is a mere unscrupulous hunt for office. They have no fixed and certain creed. They have no articles of faith by which Democratic loyalty can be rated. A party, like an individual, should seek to build up character. And without victories there can be no character.

Stealing the platform of the People's party in 1896; stealing that of the Republicans in 1904, how can Democratic leaders now pretend to lead a party based upon convictions?

I cannot see in the management of the National Democratic party anything on earth except an effort to find out which is the best bait to put on the hook. It is merely a question of catching the voter, and winning the office.

You may ask why do I consume more time discussing the Democrats than in speaking of the Republicans. My reply is: It's an easier and quicker job to strike an open enemy right between the eyes than it is to tear off the mask from the face of a pretended friend and show him to be the hypocrite that he is.

Hence I have no fear that the people to whom I shall appeal will make any mistake about the Republicans. For I know they will do as I shall do—fight the Republican party with all the power that is in them. But the National Democratic leaders, pretending to be in favor of Jeffersonian principles, when at heart their purpose is the same as that of the Republicans, hope to mislead those millions of voters who will always be found voting for Jeffersonian principles unless they are deceived.

This country today is in the utmost peril from the money question. In vain do the Democrats waive it; it cannot be waived. The Cleveland ruling, by which coin was held to mean gold, and by which paper notes were used to get bonds from the government, is still in force, and the endless chain only needs another Cleveland at the windlass.

Why is Judge Parker so assured that the gold standard is irrevocable? Nothing in human law and custom is irrevocable—especially if it is wrong.
Neither the sanctions of the constitution of the United States, the statute law of the land, nor the unbroken national practice of a century were sufficient to make the double standard of gold and silver irrevocable. Why, then, should the single gold standard, which violates the constitution, unsets the statute law, and rebels against the precedents of a hundred years, be considered irrevocable?

Use Shoffner's Sure Cure

The Great Tonic and Blood Purifier—Cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia and Catarrh.

It is a trite and true saying that the "blood is the life." Now where does the blood come from? Everybody knows, or should know, that it comes from the nutritive elements extracted by the stomach from the food we eat. If the digestive organs do not perform their functions by reason of disease germs, there is no nutrition extracted, and the food might better be thrown in the dump to decay and breed germs in the open air than to remain in the stomach and become a rotten, purid mass, as it naturally does if there is no digestion. No disease germ can live and find lodgment in a human body that uses the Shoffner's Sure Cure. Price $1.00.
